Ways to Cope with Infatuation

What are some helpful ways for me to cope?

- Being aware of my feelings and telling myself that feelings of infatuation are normal and part of growing up.
- Talking to a trusted adult like my parents, teacher or school counsellor.
- Focusing my time and attention on healthy activities and interests such as taking a walk, reading a favourite book, playing sports with friends or listening to music.

Why is this helpful?

- Acknowledging my feelings gives me time and space to make responsible decisions.
- A trusted adult can offer emotional support and guidance to act responsibly.
- Feelings of infatuation tend to be short term and these feelings become less intense over time.

What are some ways that are not helpful and unhealthy?

- Telling the person whom I like about my feelings immediately.
- Being upset and jealous when I see the person I like talking to other friends.
- Bottling up my thoughts and feelings and not sharing them with someone I trust.

Why is this not helpful?

- The other person may not know how to react, and this will affect the friendship in the long term.
- It makes everyone feel awkward and affects the friendships of everyone involved.
- Unhealthy habits may be formed when I try to deal with these strong emotions on my own.

FAMILY TIME

What can you do to help overcome these challenges? Complete the activity below by ticking the boxes. Identify as many kind choices as you can.

My family and I can do our part during food supply disruptions by:

- ☐ Being flexible with our food choices
- ☐ Rushing to the market or supermarket to buy more food than we need
- ☐ Showing kindness and sharing food with our neighbours and friends
- ☐ Following the news to find out if any food is unsafe for consumption
- ☐ Buying local produce (fresh food that is grown in Singapore farms)

Did you know?

The Singapore Food Agency (SFA) ensures and secures a supply of safe food into Singapore.

Ever wondered how SFA maintains food safety? Scan the QR code and watch this video to find out how food inspectors and scientists conduct food safety checks.

SFA has also introduced the Singapore Fresh Produce logo.

When you see this logo on a food packaging in the supermarket, it means the food was grown here!
